

Free public lecture on End-of-Life Care around the world

Professor David Clark, IHF-sponsored Visiting Professor of Hospice Studies at TCD and UCD, will deliver a free public lecture in the Royal Irish Academy in Dawson Street on Tuesday, 28th November, 7.00 p.m.

Director of the International Observatory on End of Life Care at Lancaster University, Prof. Clark is an internationally known medical sociologist who has worked as a researcher and teacher in the area of palliative care for 20 years.

His lecture, entitled, End-of-life care around the world: global and local perspectives, will take place from 7.00-9.00 p.m. in the Royal Irish Academy, 19 Dawson Street (near the Mansion House), in the centre of Dublin.

Admission is free of charge but BOOKING IS ESSENTIAL - contact Áine McCambridge at the Irish Hospice Foundation on 01-6793188 or email aine.mccambridge@hospice-foundation.ie

A press release may be downloaded here.